MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director of Central Intelligence

FROM: Lt Gen Edward J. Heinz, USAF
Director, Intelligence Community Staff

SUBJECT: Chairman, Intelligence Research and Development Council

25X1

1. Attached is a talking paper for your use in discussing the IR&DC Chairman issue with Deputy Secretary Taft on Friday morning, 11 September. The paper points out the need to have an active, engaged Chairman in place to deal with the Council's busy schedule in the next few months. The time lags that are sure to accompany appointments to fill key OSD vacancies (DDR&E, ASD/C³I) cause us to look outside DoD for someone who can step in now and provide needed guidance without delay.

25X1

2. Also attached is a copy of the DCID establishing the IR&DC, should you wish to review its missions and functions. Finally, a letter appointing Evan Hineman is attached for signature after your conversation with Mr. Taft.

DIRECTOR OF CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE DIRECTIVE ¹

Intelligence Research and Development Council

(Effective 11 March 1982)

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 102, the National Security Act of 1947, and Executive Order 12333, the Intelligence Research and Development Council (IR&DC) is hereby established.

1. Mission

The Council shall advise the Director of Central Intelligence on research and development strategy and technologies that will best contribute to the attainment of national intelligence objectives. To this end the Council shall explore new directions and techniques in both the hard and soft sciences which hold promise of intelligence applications and identify those it recommends for program resource support.

2. Functions

Under the general guidance of the Deputy Director of Central Intelligence, the Council will:

- a. review national intelligence research and development programs and advise the Director of Central Intelligence regarding their effectiveness in satisfying intelligence goals and objectives;
- b. identify those technology areas in both the hard and soft sciences where intelligence needs are unique and for which intelligence program support is required for development;
- c. review the rationale and perspective for proposed intelligence research and development in the context of present and emerging technology and advise the Director of Central Intelligence on research and development options; and
- d. establish and maintain appropriate means of continuing inter-program communications of technical results, concepts, and plans in critical technologies, including analytic methodologies.

3. Composition and Organization

- a. The Council Chairman will be appointed by the Director of Central Intelligence.
- b. Membership of the Council will consist of senior research and development members of the National Foreign Intelligence Community and of the Department of Defense.
- c. With the approval of the DCI, the Council Chairman may invite other representatives of relevant U.S. Government entities with national security interests to participate as appropriate.
- d. Subcommittees, ad hoc committees, panels, and working groups may be formed at the discretion of the Chairman.
- e. The Council will be supported by an Executive Secretariat provided by the Director, Intelligence Community Staff.

¹ This directive supersedes DCID 1/12, effective 18 April 1978.
